THE MASCOTTE DISASTER.

PERSONS KILLED BY THE

Explosion of the Steamer-Many Will Die From Their Terrible Injuries.

St. Louis, Mo., October 6 - No cause can be assigned as yet for the explosion last evening of the boiler of the river steamer La Mascotte, which caused such great less of life. The beat is said to have been steaming along under 160 pounds of steam, her usual amount to carry, when an explosion suddenly occurred, blowing the fite in every direction. The utmost confusion prevailed. The pilot, taking advantage of her heading, turned her toward the shore, but the flames caused him to abandon his post before the stage plank could be lowered. After leaving his post the current turned the boat's bow into the river again and her stern swung close to the bank, which af-forded a means of escape for several who were at that end of the boat, the pilot and one cabin boy getting ashore without any injury or even a wet foot. The stage plank was lowered and many were placed upon it, mostly women and children, who would have been saved had not the smoke stack fallen equarely across it, and all who were not killed by it were drowned.

Capt. Thompson, after doing all in his power to save the passengers and crew, jumped overboard and swam ashore, the boat laving by this time drifted 200 yards out into the river. The La Marcotte drifted over to the Illinois shore, opposite Willard's Landing, and sank, the only thing v.sible at present being her wheel. Lew Brahan, the second clerk, tells the following story of the disseter: "We had landed at Neeley's and were pulling out, and I walked up stairs and into my room, when I heard a small explosion, like a skyrocket, and opened the door to the cabin and saw the steam coming into it from the barb rshop. I saw the ladies in their cabin and called to them to come forward. I saw fire coming from under the boiler deck and I took the ladies forward to the boiler deck and started down stairs where Pilot Gesveau gave life preservers to them, telling them all to put them on immediately, I ordered the stage plank thrown overboard, which was promptly done, and we put all the ladies on plank. The rigging broke and the plank swurg cut. Mrs. L. Ssimers umped into my arms and I landed her on the stage, while I was thrown into the river mysel!. I swam alongside of the stage and made the men get off so it would bear up the ladies. I then swam to a ledge of rocks and crawled ashore. A man from Illinois, with a skiff, took the people off of the stage, and also saved a number that were swimming. I do not recollect the skiff man's name, but he did some

J. J. Hanlon, the second pilot, says "The Eagle was near us when the disester occurred, and could essily have pushed us ashore without much trouble or danger, but I understand the captain did not care to render any assis ance. Adolphus Evelyn, pilot of the Eagle, told me that the captain ordered him not to go near the Mascotte as he did not wish to endanger his boat. If he would only have pushed us ashore not a single person would bave been injured, except from scalds and burns. A special from Cape Girardeau to the Post Dispatch states that the wreck of the La Mascotte resulted from the collapse of one of the boiler flues. The explosion spent its force directly backward into the engine room, and only the crew and roustabouts suffered from being scalded by the escaping steam, Eleven of the latter were so terriby burned that huge scales of flesh peeled from their bodies. Six of them have died; their names are: George Keywood of Nashville, Teon.; Jack Finnell of St. Louis, Thomas Lacey of St. Louis, William Jones of St. Louis, J. Henry Gordon of Evans-

The following deckhands were so severely burned that their lives are despaired of: William Davis, of Mid-way, Ky.; Albert Rice, of Cape Girardeau; Levi Chatham, of Paducah, Ky.; William S. Partsell, of Evans-ville, Ind.; Dallas Webster, of Evans-

The others who are known to have been drowned are the following: Mrs. William Wheeling and her two young daughters, of Cape Girardeau; Judge William Hegar, of Cape Girar-deau; a young man name unknown; M 88 Amelia Kruger, of Capa Girardeau; J. Roy Perkins, of Evansville, Ind., first clerk of La Mascotte; Miss Julia Robisch, of Cape Girardeau; head engineer of the La Mascotte, Mac Snearer, deckhand; two chamber-maids, Lew D. Adams, second mae; a lady and two children, supposed to be Mrs. Bernes and her daughters, of Puxico, Mo. D. S. Davidson is so badly burned around the face and throat that he will probably die.

After the bodies of the killed and injured had been brought ashore they were placed on the steamer Eagle, which brought them to this city, where local and visiting physicians are now caring for them.

The register of passengers was lost with the La Mascotte, and it is thought that some were drowned or killed whose bodies have not been recov-

Hay Fever Sufferers.

The number of people annually afflicted with this most annoying malady seems to be greatly on the increase.

The ecitor of this journal is an annual victim, and with a view to discover a specific has tried numerous remedies. Of these "Ely's Cream Balm" is by all odds the quickest and most satisfactory, two applications greatly allaying the usual symptoms in the nose and eyes. We would recommend its use by all subject to hay fever, and we gladly bear unsolicited testimony to its efficiency in our own case, * * *-Media (Pa.) Record.

THE UTAH COMMISSION.

SUMMARY OF THEIR ANNUAL RE-PORT TO THE

Secretary of the Interior-The Disfranchisement Law Successfully Enforced.

WASHINGTON, October 6 -The Utah Commission, by its chairman, A. B. Carleton, has filed with the Secretary of the Interior its annual report, of which the following is a synopsis: During the year the law regarding the disfranchisement of polygamists and those living in un'awful cchabita ion has been fully and successfully enferced. All such persons, with very few if any exceptions, have been ex-A large number have been fixed and imprisoned in the penitentiary for polygamy or unlawful cohabitation, chiefly for the latter offense. It is reported and be ieved by many nonreports, yet we have no doubt that a knowledge, approbation and actupon the whole polygamous ma riages are on the decress in Utab, is a mat-ter on which different opinions are expressed, but undoubtedly many have been restrained by the fear of disfranchisement and the penten-tiary, and we think it is safe to say that in the more enlightened portions of the territory, as, for example, Salt Lake City and its vicinity, very faw polygamous marriages have occurred within the last year.

Referring to the joint resolution now pending in both houses of Congress, proposing an amendment to the Con-stitution of the United States prohibiting and publishing polygamy in all the States and Territories, extending the judicial power of the Federal Government to the prosecution of such offenses, the report says: "While we are of the opinion that this should not supercede other measures, we are sitisfied that it would be an efficient factor in effecting the desired result. In addition to the reasons presented by the Judiciary Committee, we suggest that the incorporation of this provis-ion in the constitut on would serve as an advertisement to the people of all civilized parions that in the United States polygamy had been put under a ban in the most authoritative and emphatic manner.

The report calls attention to the magnitude of the evil by saying that there are more than 200,000 Mormons in the world, a large majority of whom live in Utah, and that, while only a portion of them practice polygamy, they all believe in it as a divine revelation, having been taught it in their schools and churches for a third of a century; are led by men of great skill and ability, and are faratical to a marked degree; that the only immediately effective remedy would be the use of the military, but that the sanse of modern civilization will not permit the employment of bayonets against women and children. Yet the American people regard polygamy as a crime, and it cannot be ignored by the government. "Here we may say that, while we recognize the obligation of the government to protect the personal property rights of the Mormon people, and to deal with them as equals before the law, yet it is equally the duty of the government to punish crime within its jurisdiction, and reg'ous liberty cannot be pleaded as a bar to punishment for crimical acts in violation of the laws of the land and of social order. If the present laws and the proposed constitutional amendments are not sufficient to suppress the evil, more stringent enact-ments must be adopted, and the resuit will be that, at no distant day this relie of Asiaric barbarism, this blot on the fair name of America, will be swept from the land.

LAST YEAR.

Last year he wrots: "The roses blossom And palely white to seent the hot, still air,
And then, soft springing in the garden bed.
The aromatic pinks, all tall and fair,
Nod to each other as the dawn grows clear."
That was last year; sad heart! that was last

Here is the page! as there I sadly trace
The failing hand that pain's keen touch
had pressed,
I note the failtering, the increasing space,
As if the task were hard, then longed for

Were yet more argent. Ah! I sitting here Remember all this letter said last year. And now I rise—and wander all alone Beneath his roses; when wan night glides

I see the moonlight sleeping on the stone That marks the spot where he out there doth lie.
At rest—alone—he who was once so dear,
From whom that letter came; last year—last

Is it not cruel how his roses bloom? How lives this letter, though the writer's dead; How there lasts on his chair, his desk, his The flowers he planted-white or pink or While he is deaf, nor heeds each heart wrung That falls as I think of him there last year! How laugh the children gathering in the

As love gifts for each other, sacred leaves—
Sacred to me at least. That old world musk
We always gathered. God! how memory weaves
Immorful spells. I feel—I see him near,
That true, good friend God took from me
last year!

And yet I am alone; beyond life's pain That friend I loved lies silent—while his flowers
Rise from the earth, and blossom once again
As they did blossom in these better hours
When that which is was but a haunting fear,
And he was with us still; oh! sad last year!

And yet! if they can spring from out the sod. Will be and I not meet and speak ones more?
Thou maker of our friendship, patient God!
Send me one message from that silent shore!
Yet nothing see I, nothing can I hear,
Bave echoes faintly calling—ah! last year! -All the Year Rounds
